CALVERT HIGH SCHOOL

FOREWORD

"When men give up offending God by sin, they will give up wars."

On a bright May day in 1917, just a little past noon, a beautiful lady, "clothed in bright light," appeared to three shepherd children at Cova da Iria, near Fatima, Portugal. Eventually she proclaimed herself to be the Lady of the Rosary, and told the children to return to the same spot on the thirteenth of each month until October, promising to reveal to them what she desired.

In each of her six appearances to them she stressed three things: doing penance for the sins of the world; consecrating the world to her Immaculate Heart; and renewing devotion to her by the daily devout recitation of the rosary.

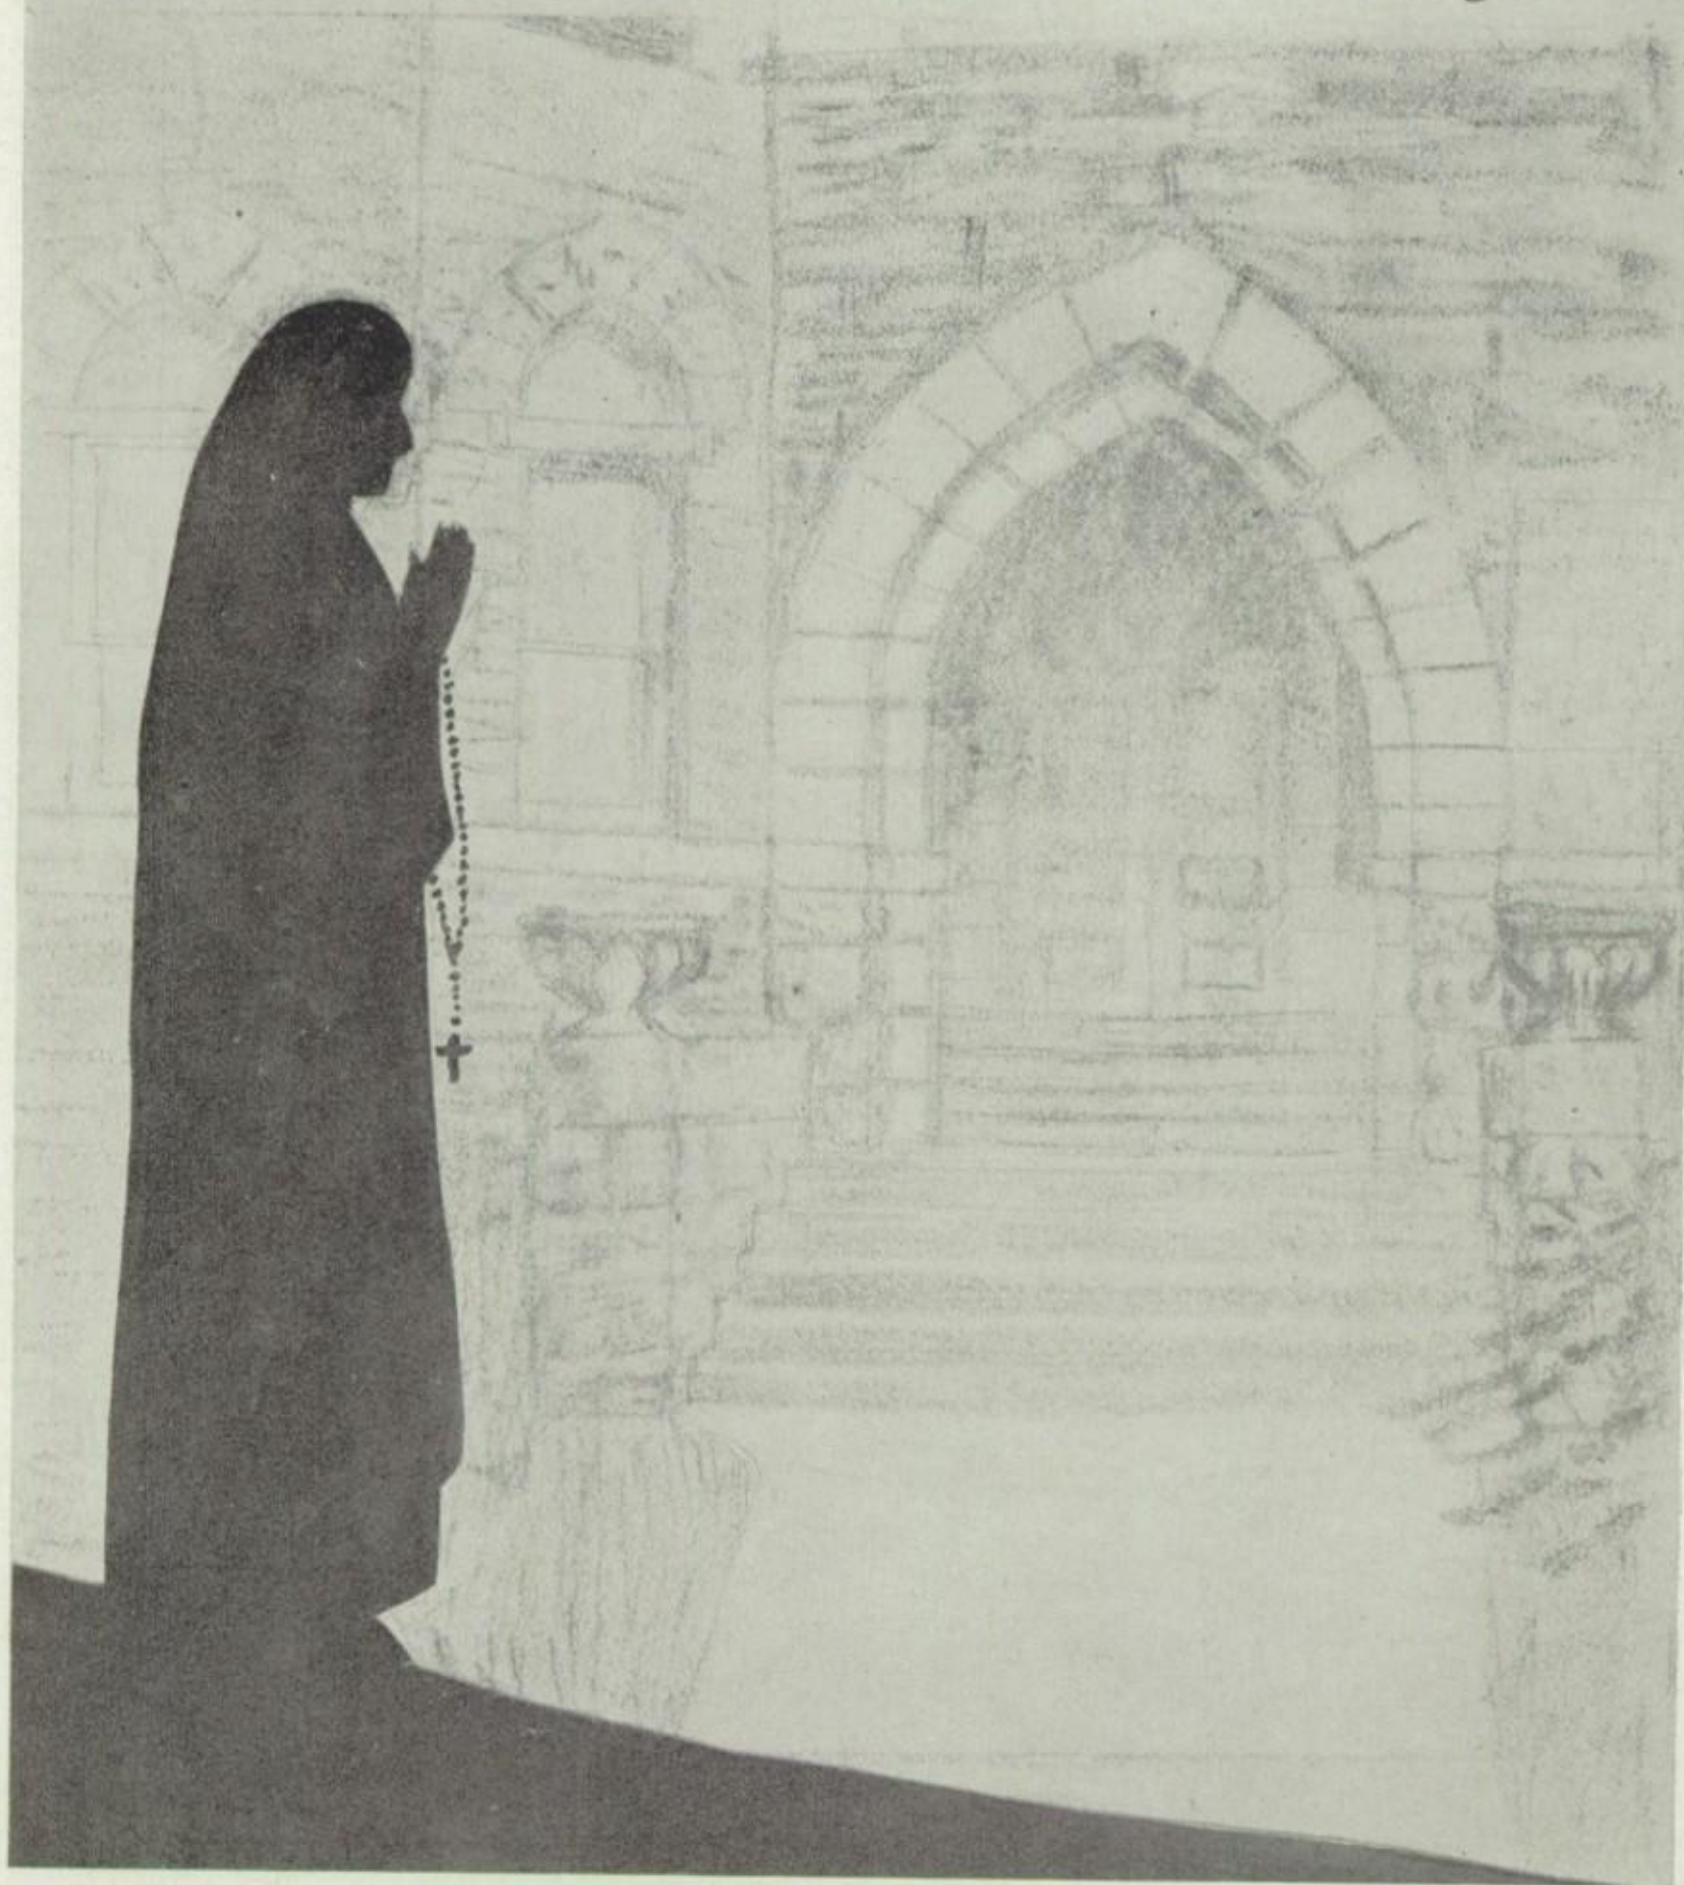

Our Lady also threatened a worse war to follow World War I, which was then in progress, if her wishes were not fulfilled. We have seen that threat become a reality. The last war has left the world in a state of havoc, poverty, and misery. Atheistic Communism seems about to claim all Europe and the East. Its overthrow seems an impossibility.

Yet it is precisely the overthrow of Communism which Our Lady of Fatima has promised if we will but fulfill her desires of prayer and penance for the sins of the world. "Russia," she told the children, "will be converted, and there will be peace."

It is as an inspiration to ourselves to follow our Lady's advice, that we, the class of 1948, have dedicated our Calvertana to Our Lady of Fatima. May she accept our work and our prayer as a plea for the fulfillment of her promises.

ADMINISTRATION

HIS EXCELLENCY MOST REVEREND KARL J. ALTER
Bishop of Toledo

Since his consecration on June 17, 1931, our Most Reverend Bishop has been continuously interested in the welfare of Calvert and, when able, has presided at the graduation exercises. The students here at Calvert express their appreciation and devotion to him and assure him a remembrance in their prayers.

REV. GEORGE C. JAEGER, B.A.

Principal

Religion, German

With pride and gratitude, we, the students of Calvert's twenty-second graduating class, look upon our principal as a most patient and capable administrator. Through our high school years, Father Jaeger has been our main source of inspiration. In spite of his many other duties he has always found time to advise us in our problems. A good priest, a spiritual father, a true friend, a scholastic guide—these are the attributes that characterize our principal.

We cannot adequately express our gratitude to him who has taught us the value of our religion and helped us to pattern our lives on that of Christ. We hope to show our appreciation by continuing to live the lives of loyal Catholics.

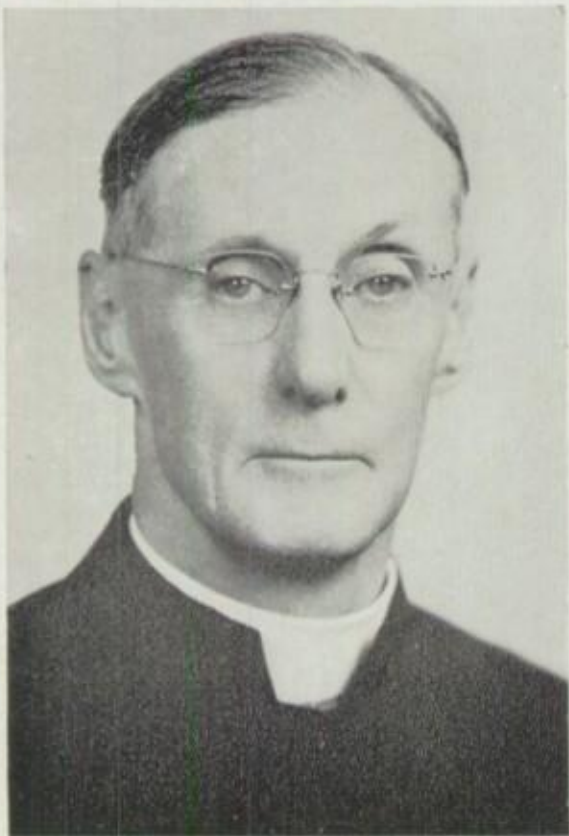

REV. JOSEPH I. SCHILL, A.B.

Assistant Principal

RELIGION, SOCIOLOGY, PUBLIC SPEAKING

An efficient assistant principal and a true friend, Father Schill's practical training will be of the utmost value to those who have studied under him.

RT. REV. MSGR. R. I. KINNANE,

S.T.D., V.G., P.A.

Pastor of St. Mary's Parish

Because of his deep and quiet interest in youth, Monsignor Kinnane has endeared himself to every student of Calvert High School.

REV. RICHARD J. GABEL,

S.T.D., Ph. D.

Pastor of St. Joseph's Parish

For his recent years of guidance and understanding, we, the student body, express our thanks and appreciation.

From her window in the school corridor, Saint Angela Merici has looked down on Calvert students for the past twenty-five years. Franciscan tertiary and foundress of the Ursulines, first teaching order of women in the Church, Saint Angela serves both as protector of the youth within Calvert walls and as model for the devoted priests, religious, and lay teachers who devote themselves to the education of youth.

POWERHOUSE

There is a pamphlet entitled, "Books Control the Future." If the title states a fact, and the experience of history shows that it does, then we can well say that the library controls the school.

Here it is that, under the direction of an experienced librarian, Calvert students find the material to fill in the background of their religious, historical, social, and cultural background.

ACTIVITIES

RELIGIOUS

The most important religious activities at Calvert are the diligent study of religion in the classes and the practice of that religion by honorable conduct. From those who have turned in the best performance on these activities for the four years, two are chosen for the honor of presenting the student body's offering to the Blessed Mother at the traditional May Crowning ceremony. The recipients of this year's honor were Salvatore Granata and Mara McNulty. Others eligible for the privilege were:

Paul Ames
Bernard Bell
Kathleen Blaes
Helen Breitenbach

RELIGIOUS

The Catholic ideal of preaching the Gospel to every creature means aid to the missions. Calvert's record for mission help is a good one, and this year's mission parties have been so successful as to top all previous records of contributions.

Even though the war is a thing of several years past, yet the threat of new hostilities has kept the sense of human helplessness alive. The chapel has been the scene of fervent rosary devotions during October, at homeroom periods each day of the year and during the noon-hour rosary novena for the favorable outcome of the Italian elections. Our Lady's loving answer to prayer has incited in the hearts of her Calvert children a deep and lasting love of the rosary.

Catholic Action, too, has its definite place at Calvert. Y. C. S. groups strive with great zeal to bring Christ into their own lives and to make Him live in the lives of all about them.

The true test of the value of our ideals comes in our living them after school days are past. May our Lady of Fatima help us be true to the teachings of our faith.

PUBLICATIONS

Calvert students have three outlets for their journalistic tendencies—the Calvertana, the Calvert News, and the Inter Nos.

The Calvertana is the seniors' memory book, a volume which preserves for them the happy times enjoyed in high school and the friendships formed through the years. Together the twenty-two volumes of the book published up to this time form a sort of pictorial history of Calvert.

CALVERT NEWS

Seated: Co-editors Sue Rombach and Kathleen Blaes

In the publication of the Calvert News, students find a real opportunity to develop their writing talents and to wield influence by their presentation of a platform of action beneficial to the school. Since its first issue in February 1926, the school paper has maintained a high standard of writing and each year's editors have it as their goal at least to equal their predecessors.

Latin students gain practice in translation through the editing of the Inter Nos. This little Latin publication also gives students a basis for the study of the modern uses of Latin. Editors of the booklet are the senior Latin class.

ATHLETICS

MR. A. A. KRAMER

MR. H. J. MULLER

COACHES

Inspiring leadership, a thorough knowledge of athletics, emphasis on fundamentals, and the ability to bring out the best in each individual are the essentials of fine coaching. Calvert's coaches have all of these qualities as their influence on the basketball and football squads prove.

Coach Kramer, through his wonderful knack for molding fine teams and even finer men, has given Calvert fans many minutes of real thrills in every game.

Mr. H. Joseph Muller during his two years of work with the football team has won the respect and admiration of everyone with whom he has come in contact. Every gridder who has received guidance from Mr. Muller will remember him as a fine example and a true friend.

Calvert athletes are most fortunate in having such Catholic gentlemen to lead them on gridiron and hardcourt.

SENIOR LETTERMEN

JIM HARLETT

Jim showed great skill in his sweeping end runs at the beginning of the season, and the team really felt his absence after he broke his leg in the Crestline game.

JIM DISTEL

BOB ROHRBACH

Jim (69) and Bob (67), both two-year lettermen, were honored by their teammates for the fine spirit of leadership and good sportsmanship which they showed throughout the season whether the going was smooth or rough. These 1947 co-captains of the football squad are Class-A material.

JACK REUTER

A bad leg, received in the previous season, was a handicap, but Jack (59) showed his grit and determination by remaining in the fight despite his difficulty.

HARRY MILLER

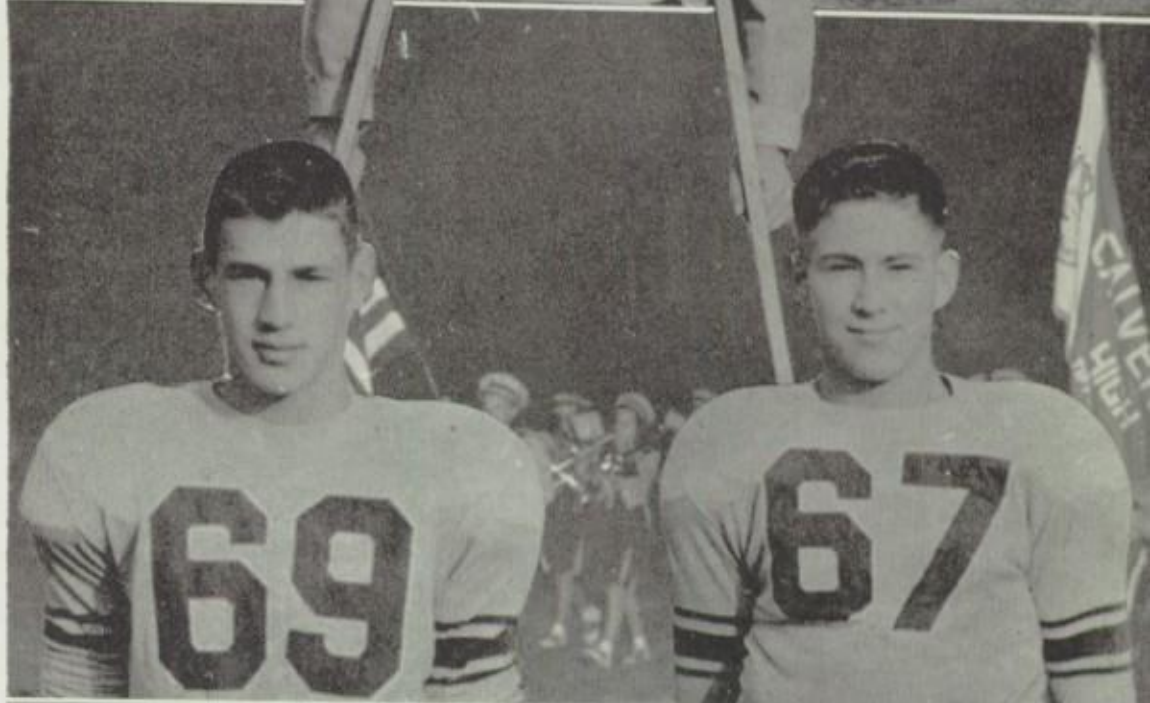

Spirit and enthusiasm are contagious, and Harry (50) communicated his to the team whether he was in the game or merely watching from the bench.

JOHN KELLER

Johann (61) was always ready to give his all and never failed to add his strength to the line.

DICK DISTEL

When the people in the stands could hear the tackles crack and when things really started popping, you could always find Dick (55) in the thick of things.

MOST VALUABLE PLAYER

Charles Burkart was chosen "Most Valuable Player" and as a result was the second junior in the school's history to receive the award. He achieved the honor because of his rugged offensive and defensive play. On offense he showed his power by his line plunges, and on defense he starred at backing the line.

CO-CAPTAINS

Chuck Altwies and Dick Sherwood were chosen co-captains of the 1947-1948 basketball squad. Both boys, who measure slightly over six feet, were picked because of their outstanding work under the baskets and because they did a great amount of the team's scoring. Being only juniors, Chuck and Dick will be back next year to take up where they left off.
